Feb 4, 2020 ) : ( uniVertual : Windows, Ubuntu, Solaris, Linux, Android, OSX, Linux/BSD, nowaZLabs/TinySDK, etc..1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates generally to a method and apparatus for continuous casting of metal and, more particularly, a method and apparatus for continuous casting of metal of which primary- and secondary-melts are used, the apparatus of which is equipped with cooled rollers including a lubricating oil reservoir, a guide plate, and a cooling oil hole formed through the guide plate. 2. Description of the Related Art Generally, a continuous casting apparatus includes a cooler which is equipped with a plurality of rollers. The rollers include a pair of rolls disposed in an opposed manner across a mold wherein molten metal poured into the mold is solidified. The rollers serve to make the width of the mold uniform and to adjust the width of the product to be cast and are thus supported by shafts which are fastened to the upper and lower portions of the rollers so as to be rotatable about horizontal and vertical axes. The rollers are heated to a temperature of about 350-450° C. so as to prevent the molten metal poured into the mold from freezing therein. According to such a casting apparatus, however, a mold wall heated to a high temperature is directly contacted with the rollers to allow cooling oil to be well accumulated between the mold wall and rollers, thereby resulting in entrainment of oil dust and oil loss. Therefore, oil that has been originally poured into the rollers must be frequently supplied to the rollers. If the oil is stored in the rollers without supplying from the outside of the apparatus, the oil is gradually oxidized, thereby causing the rollers to be deteriorated in quality. Furthermore, even if the oil is supplied from the outside, a proper amount of the oil supplied to the rollers must be maintained. When a mold having a plate portion which is rotated for adjustment of the mold width is used, the rollers must be cooled by circulating cooling oil having a high heat capacity. It is however difficult to supply the cooling oil to the rollers at a predetermined temperature from the outside of the apparatus in the above case. Thus, the interior of the mold is cooled by passing the cooling oil through the interior of a guide plate, resulting in increased wearing of the rollers.Pregnancy after a failed in vitro fertilization-embryo 3da54e8ca3
