Diet restriction is one of the best-known and perhaps best-studied of the interventions that affect lifespan. Because it works by slowing down metabolic rate, it is thought to be the best single intervention that could be made that would have powerful long-term effects on the rate of aging. This paper shows that although this is probably true in the short run, when giving people an enriched diet, they actually gain more weight. This is caused by increased food intake due to the extended chewing time of food, while the rate of overall metabolism does not change. Improved nutrition allows people to maintain their weight at a lower level.1. Field of the Invention The invention relates to a method of processing an extreme ultra-violet (EUV) reflector, a surface structure of the EUV reflector, an EUV light source, and a lithography apparatus using the EUV light source. 2. Description of the Related Art A lithography apparatus applies a desired pattern to a resist (a semiconductor wafer, a glass plate, a liquid-crystal display (LCD) substrate, an optical disk substrate, or the like) coated with a resist in order to manufacture fine electronic devices (for example, a semiconductor device, an liquid-crystal display device, a thin-film magnetic head, or the like). A highly precise, high-throughput lithography apparatus is required for the manufacture of fine electronic devices. Despite my assistant, Heather Delish, literally shadowing me by the year as I have progressed from the very first Valkyria Chronicles to my newest role at GDC 2014, I have unfortunately done none of the extra work that has enabled her to progress as a developer. Castro had tried to steer clear of any sort of public appearance for some time, opting instead for an official, near-invisible role. "Fidel will no longer be with us," the president said from the White House. "But the fight for justice and dignity continues. The struggles of the Cuban people for liberty and freedom continue. The United States will continue to stand with the Cuban people." In a statement late on Friday afternoon, the International Raoul Woldenberg Center of Havana said that Castro had died at 9:29 p.m. on November 25. "He gave his final instructions to his sons; and he died in a state of health which did not allow him to see the time of the meeting and to know that the heroic insurrection's first battle was won," the government statement said. The "heroic insurrection" is the Cuban people's five-month-long struggle to topple Castro's rule. Castro had a history of heart problems, but he had appeared in good health in recent months. The Associated Press said that President Obama had been informed of Castro's death in advance, and that Castro's body would be moved to a funeral home near the eastern city of Santiago de Cuba, and then flown to the capital. Cuba's left-wing government has called for a day of mourning, and in the capital, Havana, Cuban TV showed the images of Castro as a young man, and then as a World War II veteran and a leader of the Cuban Revolution. "Today we pay homage to our brother Fidel," said the presenter on state TV. "We salute the Cuban people, and the leaders who govern the country after him, and our people in other parts of the world who support our struggle, without distinction of color, race, creed or religion. We salute the Cuban nation. We pray for the country. May God bless our homeland. May God bless our government." In February, the president expressed
