The changes that the European Union has made in its financial dealings with Russia over the past several years, has both the short-term and long-term impacts for the two countries. Europe has been taking money out of Russia for gas pipelines, and for Russia taking down its support from the Eurozone, European Union members are now facing the consequences. This is the News channel of the European Press Magazine, which is one of the World's leading monthly magazine for News in the EU and in its expansion to the world. The European Press Magazine covers the European Union and other international issues of political, social, cultural and economic character for the European press and the world in general. The European Press Magazine in cooperation with the European Press Product Awards invites colleagues, clients and friends to enjoy the European year of cultural diversity 2013. With the European year of cultural diversity 2013 as the theme: "Vive la diversité culturelle: l'Europe entre cultures et pays" (Long live the cultural diversity: Europe between cultures and nations), we invite you to translate and publish an article on the theme in the European Press Magazine.
