Microsoft rebates Windows 7 upgrades New deal with PC makers Microsoft has started an offer of up to $150 worth of software upgrades for Windows 7 users, the company said. The offer started yesterday (28 January) and ends today (29 January), with deals available to both new and existing Windows 7 users. "With Windows 7, we are continuing to bring the benefits that people love about Windows to the majority of the world's PCs -- PCs that represent the basis of business, education and government," said Dave Mylett, corporate vice-president for Windows Client Software. Microsoft has tied in its Windows Upgrade Offer to a deal to get more new PCs running the latest versions of Windows. Under the terms of its Commercial License Agreement, PC manufacturers are required to deliver new Windows 7 Professional and Windows 7 Ultimate PCs running either Windows 7 Enterprise or Windows 7 Premium to retailers. They can also offer Windows 7 Pro and Windows 7 Ultimate as part of their existing volume PC promotion. The company is also making sure that its key software applications remain available on Windows 7. Microsoft will offer Windows Live Hotmail and Windows Live Mail for new PCs running Windows 7 from today, and Word 2007, Excel 2007, PowerPoint 2007, OneNote 2007 and Publisher 2007 from February. d0c515b9f4
